The ISPCA is the biggest national animal welfare organisation in Ireland. Our mission is that through education, legislation and ongoing support for our affiliated member societies we can prevent cruelty to all animals.

ISPCA and An Cumann Éireannach um Fhóirithint ar Ainmhithe are the registered business names of the Irish Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, a company limited by guarantee, registered in Ireland with the company number 460571.

The Society is recognised as a Charitable Organisation by the Revenue Commissioners, Charity Number 5619 and is registered with the Charities Regulatory Authority, Registered Charity Number 20008734.

Chairperson's Statement

The ISPCA is proud to be the largest animal welfare organisation in Ireland, with a national Inspectorate covering 17 counties.

The ISPCA's efforts in rescuing, rehabilitating and rehoming animals, is made possible by the support and co-operation of our Member Societies and the tireless work of Dr. Andrew Kelly, our Chief Executive Officer, our staff and our volunteers. As pet ownership has increased in Ireland, unfortunately so too have the incidences of animal cruelty. Our dedicated team of Inspectors are at the forefront of investigating and leading prosecutions of animal cruelty.

Our financial position at the end of 2016 was stable but I am pleased to report an increase in legacy income in 2017, which will facilitate the expansion of our kennel facilities at the National Animal Centre. We are also funded by Government grants and donor contributions, for which we are very grateful. I would also like to acknowledge the support received from Michael Creed TD since his appointment as Minister for Agriculture, Food and the Marine, and the ongoing collaboration with his Department.

CEO Report

2016 was yet another busy year for the ISPCA. Over 16,000 calls were received by our National Cruelty Helpline, a 6% increase on 2015. As a result over 3,200 complaints were investigated by our team of eight Inspectors. Thirty two prosecutions were initiated and fifteen were finalised in court, all but one under the Animal Health and Welfare Act 2013 (AHWA). In 2015, nine prosecutions were finalised, seven of which were under the AHWA meaning that the number of cases being finalised in court has doubled within a year. This indicates the effectiveness of the legislation and the effectiveness of the statutory powers enjoyed by our Inspectors who are Authorised Officers under the AHWA. In all cases, the defendants pled guilty or were found to be guilty of the charges brought against them. Fines ranged from €100 - €2000, with suspended prison sentences in two cases. Sadly, no disqualification orders were imposed by the courts. We hope to see stiffer penalties in the future to act as a deterrent to those who neglect, abandon or cruelly treat animals. Our Inspectors will continue to robustly and effectively enforce the AHWA and we will continue to work with the Department of Agriculture to ensure that animal welfare issues are taken seriously in the coming years.

Our eight Inspectors continue to cover only 17 counties (see Inspectorate area map, page 5). It remains the ISPCA's strategic goal to recruit enough Inspectors to cover the whole of the country, preferably with one Inspector covering each county. However we do not currently have the resources to do this and will be working hard in 2017 and beyond to generate sufficient funding, both from government and the public to achieve this aim. Sadly, there are animals suffering in parts of Ireland that we simply cannot help because we cannot reach them.

As a result of the increased activity of our Inspectors, ISPCA services were stretched to the limit in 2016. Our Inspectors seized or had surrendered to them, 995 animals. These consisted of 625 dogs, 231 cats, 81 equines and 58 other animals including seven swans and three goats. This puts significant pressure on our two animal centres and our dedicated staff and volunteers.

The National Animal Centre in Co. Longford admitted over 1000 animals, 90% of which were successfully rehomed. This included 507 dogs, 239 cats, 16 horses and 9 donkeys. Visitors to the NAC continue to increase year on year, more than doubling in just four years. Due to the numbers of animals entering our centres and the length of time that these animals require to recover before being rehomed, we have had to make increasing use of private boarding kennels for emergency admissions. This has highlighted the need to develop our facilities at both centres and to expand the number of ISPCA centres around the country. Plans commenced in 2016 for an extension to our existing kennels which will provide a dedicated puppy wing to house whelping bitches and puppies. We have also started upgrading our existing facilities to provide the best possible standards for those animals that come into our care.

Our Equine Rescue Centre in Mallow, Co. Cork continues to develop under the guidance of the new manager. A total of 73 equines were admitted in 2016 with new homes being found for 51. During 2016, a new sand arena was constructed which allows the staff to work with horses and get them used to handling. This new facility will reduce the length of time that horses are in our care and will result in new homes being found quicker which means that we can help more horses in the future.

2016 also presented one of our biggest challenges to date. Due to the closure of a research facility, the ISPCA was asked to find homes for 350 dogs (mostly beagles) and 250 cats. Our staff have worked tirelessly to make this happen with the assistance of Dogs Trust and Cats Protection to whom we are very grateful. This operation will take many months as the animals need to be microchipped, neutered and socialised before they can be put up for adoption. However, it is a significant achievement to give these dogs and cats the chance of a loving home for the rest of their lives. The first group of dogs and cats left the facility in November and all have already found new homes.

The ISPCA continued to manage five Dog Warden Services for local authorities in 2016. However a decision was taken to withdraw from the service in Carlow / Kilkenny. It is anticipated that a new service provider will be identified by June 2017. This will allow us to focus on the four remaining services in 2017 and to work with the local authorities to improve the welfare standards and to find homes for as many unclaimed dogs as possible by working with approved rescue groups around the country.

Our advocacy work continued to grow in 2016 with campaigns on spaying / neutering, microchipping and responsible pet ownership. We also launched our Big Stop campaign calling for a ban on the use of wild animals in circuses. This campaign attracted over 29,000 signatures and we hope to see legislative change over the next 12 months. To further our advocacy work, in August 2016 we joined Eurogroup for Animals, Europe's largest animal welfare lobbying organisation. This enables us to join with our fellow members across the EU to campaign for better welfare and protection for pets, farm animals, wild animals and animals used in entertainment, sport and research both here in Ireland and across the EU.

In 2016, the ISPCA launched its first Five Year Strategic Framework, highlighting the four main animal welfare pillars that we will be focussing on from 2016 to 2020 and beyond. We are now working to ensure that we meet the challenging objectives we have set. Many of these challenges are resource dependent and we need to generate more income in order to grow and develop the organisation and develop the services we provide across the country. In order to do this, we have invested in our fundraising activities to recruit new regular donors so that we can predict our income over the coming years. We are also investing in attracting legacies and are developing our Home Forever Programme which will give peace of mind to pet owners who are concerned about what will happen to their pets when they are gone. By committing to leaving a legacy to the ISPCA in their wills, ISPCA supporters will be able to help animals in the future as well as having the ISPCA care for their pets.

Whilst I am very pleased with our achievements in 2016, I am not complacent. Whilst the economic climate is improving, it remains a challenging environment for charities and we have to ensure that our supporters trust us and that we are open, transparent and accountable. As members of the umbrella groups Charities Institute Ireland and The Wheel, we are committed to demonstrating this through the Governance and Transparency page on our website.

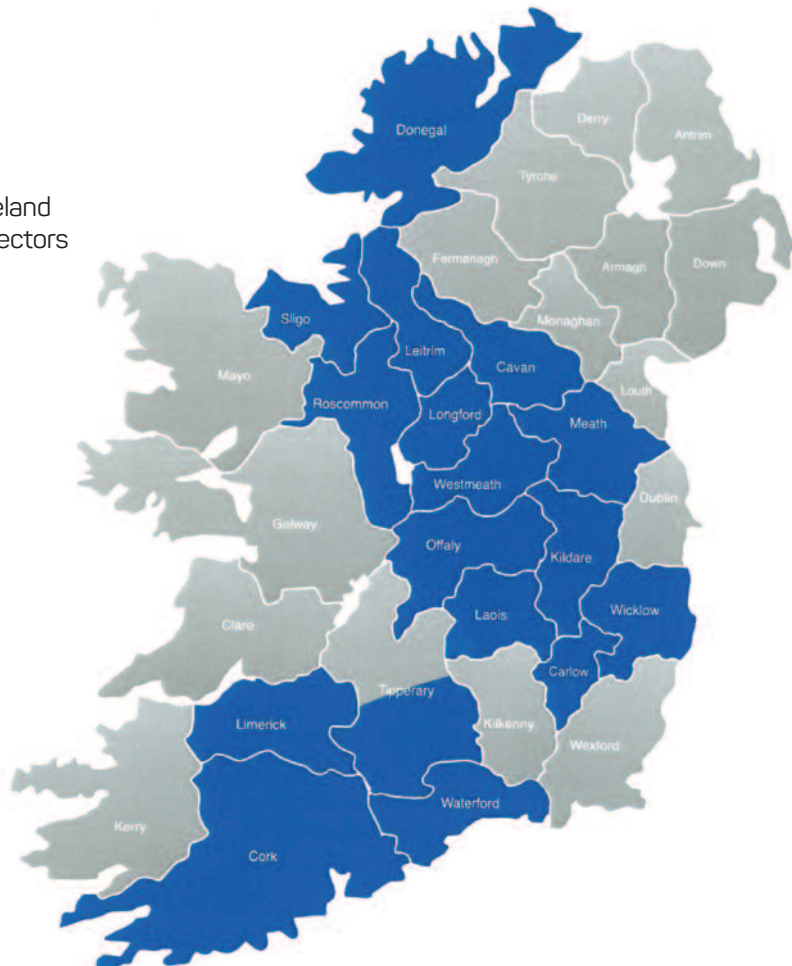

I would like to thank our staff and volunteers of the ISPCA and our affiliated Member Societies for their hard work dealing with those animals most in need, often in very difficult (and sometimes harrowing) circumstances. I would also like to thank all of our supporters who continue to donate to the ISPCA in difficult times: we could not do what we do without their ongoing support. Finally, I would like to thank the ISPCA Board of Directors for their continued support.
